

THE UNIVERSITY of EDINBURGH
School of History, Classics and Archaeology

Extraordinary postgraduate degrees in Classics

Open up new horizons with our range of postgraduate degree programmes.

Classics
edin.ac/hca-pg-degrees

EDINBURGH
xtraordinary futures await

With a distinguished tradition that stretches back more than four centuries, studying Classics at Edinburgh – the ‘Athens of the North’ – will allow you to deepen your study of the history, cultures, languages and literatures of some of the most important civilisations in world history.

Classics at Edinburgh provides the ideal environment for postgraduate study: academic staff with wide-ranging interests and expertise, with taught programmes and research supervision in all aspects of the Classical world: Latin and Greek language and literature, Ancient History, Classical Art and Archaeology, the Hellenistic World, ancient Philosophy, Late Antiquity and more.

Our School delivers world-leading research and knowledge exchange. We have a number of cross-School research groups and seminar series providing a forum for the exchange of ideas and the promotion of new research and debate among the student community, both within and outside the University.

Scan the QR code to find out more and apply.

edin.ac/hca-pg-degrees

Correct as of July 2023

Our taught postgraduate degrees

MSc Classics
MSc Ancient History
MSc Classical Art and Archaeology
MSc Late Antique, Byzantine and Islamic Studies
MSc Ancient Worlds (online learning)

Our research postgraduate degrees

MSc by Research Classics
PhD Classics

“I love the diversity of scholarship and coursework offered here. They [staff] are always available and happy to chat, and it fosters a very healthy working and learning environment.”

- Siena
- MSc in Classical Art and Archaeology

